Jesus said to Peter: "Simon, son of John, do you truly love me"?

"Yes Lord" Peter said, "You know that I love you"

Again Jesus said: Simon, son of John, "do you truly love me"?

Peter said: "Yes Lord you know that I love you.

The third time Jesus said: "Simon, son of John, do you truly love me"?

Peter said: "Lord you know all things, you know that I love you.

Jesus said: "Feed my sheep." (From John 21)

Dear Friends,

According to The Tremeloes in 1967, "Silence is Golden". The origin of this phrase has much earlier roots, of course, but its sentiment stretches back for all eternity. There is something wonderful about silence.

And yet it seems in our modern existence that silence is more and more difficult to come by. I know on a personal basis that with three primary aged children finding quiet, let alone silence, is next to impossible. Plus there are other gadgets, such as mobile phones, computers, games consoles, TVs, MP3 players, radios all of which vie for our attention every waking moment of the day. And although this is what I'm used to (being an eighty's child), and is in some ways a comfort to me (having a background in computing), it feels like society is gradually filling up with more and more noise. Which part of me wishes to escape from.

So it was with a mixture of excitement and apprehension that I went on a Quiet Day at Launde Abbey recently. If you have been to Launde you will know it is a beautiful house situated at the bottom of a picturesque valley, a few miles west of Oakham. Not only is it a peaceful setting in itself, but the geography also means that there is no mobile phone reception there. Resulting in much less distraction all round!

I must say that I found the quiet day incredibly helpful. We started with a thought provoking talk, leading into about an hour of silence, followed by midday prayers. Then we had lunch together in silence, (I don't think this is always the case) and then we were given another challenging talk before going back into silence again for another hour or so. The day was finished with Communion together.

To me, the times of silence were just long enough to allow some meaningful periods of reflection without feeling like time was dragging, and the setting, helped by fine weather that day, brought me to a place of real peace as I wandered in the grounds.

I have now booked on to the next two quiet days and intend to make them a regular part of my prayer life.

If you are finding life a little too noisy, perhaps spending some time at Launde, or even attending one of their quiet days yourself, might be of benefit to you. We have such a wonderful resource in Launde Abbey right on our door step. I want to encourage you to make the most of it, just as I intend to do.

I wish you a peaceful and blessed summer.

Owen Williams (Curate in the Oakham Team Ministry).

MOTHERS' UNION WINE TASTING!

This was an outstanding event, read on.

The need. Many children from impecunious backgrounds receive a free school lunch. This may be the main, sometimes only, meal of the day. However this does not occur during half-term and holidays.

The solution. Kettering Mothers' Union bid successfully for part of a legacy to establish a 'holiday lunch club' for these children. Our local Mothers' Union branch decided to support this visionary project with a similarly visionary event, a wine tasting!

The wine came from local supplier Bat and Bottle owned by Ben, son of All Saints Sunday School leader Robin Robson. The business specialises in Italian wine so a large map was brought along to show the area from which each of the five wines originated. A sparkling prosecco was followed by two white and two red wines.

Ben described the characteristics of each wine and Emma poured a sample into our wineglasses for our (un?)-sophisticated palates to test. We were encouraged to swirl our glasses before inspecting them and sniffing the contents as the professionals do!

The result. The audience had a great evening, some of whom won a raffle prize, Bat and Bottle obtained orders from potential new customers, and the Kettering lunch project receives about £400. It was a win/win/win evening.

There are two dates in June for your diary, on Thursday 9th the meeting in the Church Hall will be a Strawberry tea with member's contributions about Summer. On Thursday 30th June the Mothers' Union and The Friends of All Saints have their joint outing, this year to Bury St Edmunds. Hope to see you at these events.

Visiting Churches – and a Meeting With St George

There's no doubting that Rutland is a beautiful county. No doubting either that its villages contribute greatly to the overall canvas. And helping even more are the historic churches that often dominate the stone-built locales of quiet, laid-back living that is our heritage.

To learn more of the county's delights, 27 Friends of All Saints set off on a very cold mid-April morning to enjoy super scenery – and discover the history and mystery of four Rutland churches.

Our guide was Andrew Swift, an expert in all things to do with both the actual buildings themselves and how churches have evolved and developed over the centuries. He had travelled down from his home in Norfolk to share his specialist knowledge and proved a veritable encyclopaedia of information.

First stop was the village of North Luffenham, still a centre for the Ministry of Defence, though with brown jobs" rather than the one-time "brylcream boys". Our target was the parish church of St John the Baptist.

Dating back to the 11th century there is much of interest here, including medieval wall paintings, fragments of 14th century stained glass, and carved angel figures decorating the roof, many of which still show traces of paint. There is a double sedilia set against the south wall of the chancel with a brass plaque to Archdeacon Robert Johnson, the 16th century churchman who founded both Uppingham and Oakham public schools. Like they did to so many churches in the UK, the Victorians brought an epidemic of change, adding their own versions of decorations and fittings. In 1870-71 and 1874-75 they stripped the walls of the plaster, removed the medieval screen and added fittings.

For all that, this is a really imposing church, with a chancel that seems every bit as long as the nave!

Next on our tour came the church of St Mary at Morcott, which dates back to the early Norman period. The church was re-built in the early 14th century and then, again, came the Victorians with more restorations and completing the building we see today.

A fascinating carving on the chancel arch, depicts a pair of serpents swallowing each other's tails while superbly carved arcade columns display a wonderful variety of decorations including human faces, geometric patterns, chevrons, a ram's head and what Andrew Smith described as a "grotesque beast." In the south aisle is the altar tomb of William de Overtoun (d. 1500). The Overtouns were lords of the manor for centuries, living at Morcott Hall, which was called Overtoun Hall until 1800.

From Morcott to All Hallows at Seaton, a beautiful church set within a well-kept churchyard.

By this time our thoughts - and stomachs - had turned to thoughts of lunch and there, opposite the church, was the George and Dragon pub (a truly suitable destination for St George's Day). There came even more suitability when a local team of Morris Men descended on the pub and, on the road outside, performed dances and a play.

After the performance -back to church-gazing and the super Norman chancel arch and a truly beautiful Victorian alabaster altar decoration (reredos). The parish clock was installed after the end of WWI and forms the parish war memorial, funded by the public.

Our final call was the church of St Peter and Paul at Preston, a quiet village of some 180 people, two miles north of Uppingham.

The church is a delight. Its fine Norman arches, beautiful chancel and many interesting features make it really worth a visit. There are two pieces of mosaic pavement from the 5th century church of St John the Baptist in Constantinople and another from the church of St Sophia at Nicaea
Cypress trees outside the church were grown from seed collected from the Garden of Gethsemane,

The afternoon sun lighting up the chancel through the southern windows was a truly memorable sight, enabling us to enjoy this beautiful church at its peaceful best.

And so, our tour of the churches, organised by Beryl Kirtland, had come to an end. A thoroughly enjoyable trip through Rutland's best with memories of beautiful settings, fine buildings and those quiet, laid-back villages.

As described by Colin Collins, Member of The Friends.

The Bishop of Peterborough writes
The Gospel of Unity

23 June was my father's birthday. He died in 1983, but I always remember and honour him on his birthday (rather than on the December day he died, which would seem to me rather mawkish).

This year on 23 June Janice and I will be on our summer holiday, walking the West Highland Way in Scotland. I'm looking forward to that.

But before setting off on that week-long walk I will have used a postal vote to take part in the EU Referendum. I have already put on record three thoughts about the referendum, and I briefly repeat them here.

First, I regret that we are having one. We elect a government and it is their job to govern. I am so glad that we do not practise direct democracy with plebiscites on everything. We have representative democracy where people are chosen and set apart to make decisions and lead.

Second, since the government has handed the decision to us, we have a clear duty to do the research, then to think, pray, and vote. I am encouraging the diocese to observe a day of prayer on 16 June, one week before the referendum. It is important to bring this matter and our own voting intentions to God.

Third, there is a real danger of a disunited country and parliament after the vote, and a real duty for all of us, but especially politicians, to work at staying united as a nation.

Please note that there isn't a fourth point: I'm not suggesting which way you should vote, nor telling you which way I am voting. That is not the job of church leaders, though doubtless some will try. Don't listen to them. Make up your own mind.

The Christian Gospel does have something very important to say on this though. It does not of course deal with whether the UK should be in some sort of economic or political union with the EU. It says something much more important. It tells us of God's great plan to unite all people, indeed all creation, in Christ.

Whatever the outcome of the referendum (and I do have a very strong view about it), much more important is that through the debate and in the aftermath we as Christians can be talking about the great unity plan, God's plan, to bring together all people, tribes, races, and languages, to know and love and worship and bow before Jesus Christ, the King of Kings and Lord of Lords.

With best wishes

BROOKE NEWS

A well attended APCM was held at the home of Bill and Margaret Lamb on Monday the 18th April with the Rev'd Julie in the chair. Various items were reported on and discussed with thanks being expressed to several people for their continued work and support of St Peter. Julie also added her thanks to all for keeping St Peter such a well kept and welcoming church. Spare parts for the organ had at last arrived and have now been fitted with the resulting sounds being better than ever. We shall be celebrating our Patronal Festival on Sunday 3rd July welcoming Bishop Flack as our preacher. Strawberries and cream served afterwards as usual.

An early start was made on Monday morning 9th May for St Peter's annual spring cleaning day. The church was a hive of activity until lunchtime with everywhere swept, polished, dusted, painted, repaired and oiled preparing the church for its summer visitors. A thank you to Gill and Terry for providing us with some much needed cooling drinks and to everyone who helped including the Rev'd Julie; we now have the shiniest altar rail in the parish.

And a bit more history - By 1876 restoration work was urgently needed at St Peter, it was said to be in a sad state of repair especially the tower and the chancel was described as having fallen into a dangerous state of dilapidation. The total cost of the work was expected to be £1000, with the Ecclesiastical Commissioners paying for the chancel restoration and the Earl of Gainsborough, as the lessee, contributing a large amount towards the rest of the work. The total was to be made up from fund raising events and donations. The church was to be restored not modernised with every historical and interesting feature preserved.

The next PCC meeting will be at 7.30pm on Wednesday 3rd August at Abbey Barn, Brooke.

EGLETON NEWS

St. Edmund's Churchwarden SUE opened her doors, during Ascension-tide, to give welcome to St. Edmund's folk, in the good company of Sue's other stalwart friends and neighbours.

An "elegance of Cakes and Coffees" was served in a commendable bid to support Egleton's charming Church and, just as eagerly, the inestimable, fine work of Parkinsons UK.

A good time was had by one and all in this beneficial enterprise. £305.00 was raised and a unanimous chorus of acclamation was readily forthcoming from Sue's appreciative guests.

Reporting this GOOD NEWS in mid-May finds us on the threshold of CHRISTIAN AID WEEK 2016. It implores us to respond to the unceasing urgent claim "to give and give and give again....to serve right gloriously" [Studdert Kennedy]. The claim was never more conspicuous nor so desperate as it is now!

Last year's record collection in Egleton was impressive; we can be delighted by this reminder of its achievement. A plea for our village response, and every other, to exceed 'each great expectation' is inspired by the prevailing, heart-rending evidence for rampant need of CHRISTIAN AID across many frontiers.

At PENTECOST, falling in the midst of May-time, it is our TRINITARIAN faith – in God-the Father, God the Son, God the Holy Spirit – which comes into focus. A scholarly Bishop of Winchester, J.V. Taylor, in a memorable book "THE GO-BETWEEN GOD" illuminates our enhancing awareness of the Holy Spirit:

"We are falling in love at every turn of the road: with a fold in the hills, the mist over the lakes, the yellow chair in the sunlight, a new thought flashing from the page of a book, a lined face on a hospital pillow....!"

What is this force which causes Me to see in a way I have not seen? To give a personal name to this current of communication, this invisible go-between, Christians call him the HOLY SPIRIT, the Spirit of God".

Langham News

May 21st . Viennese Café at the home and garden of Ingrid Heldt, Archway House in Well Street from 10.30-1.00. There will be appropriate food, live music, open garden, plants and other items for sale and a hanging basket demonstration. In aid of church funds.

July 9th . Street Market and party. Church Street will be closed. As usual there will be food stalls and more food in the village hall. More details of this will be circulated later. A major event – look out for posters.

The much awaited shed is now in position in the churchyard, duly converted to a darker green, but now needs shelving, flooring and all things necessary for storage. We all look forward to seeing the church clear of the stack of items needed for the running of services. Despite its size, Langham church has almost no storage space and a small vestry.

Sadly Hilary Welch has died in Loros following a long fight with cancer. She was on the PCC and a faithful member of the Langham choir. She was always ready to join Oakham choir when able and took part in Team events.

She leaves a gap. We are always looking for new choir members – good if you can read music, but not necessary. The only important thing is to enjoy singing. Should you feel the commitment too much, how about trying it for one Sunday a month?

Changing Church@4 to an All Age service at 11.00 has been under consideration for some time. However, after much discussion with the mothers of those who attend, and those who might attend, it has been decided to continue with Church @4 at its present time, but to make it much more inclusive for all age groups.
